Kaleigh Rae graduated from the EVMS/ODU Graduate Program in Public Health with her MPH degree (Global Environmental Health concentration) in May 2015. She recently accepted a position as a Research Analyst in Vanderbilt's Clinical Pharmacology department.

Along with a team of physicians, Kaleigh will be studying autonomic dysfunction, participating in clinical trial coordination, clinical trial recruitment, data analysis and technical writing. Although the position of a Research Analyst is quite multifaceted, she feels confident that EVMS has given her the tools to succeed in this role and in the field of public health.
